

Angela Belford

Bio:

Angela earned her Bachelors of Science in Business Administration in Marketing from the Walton College of Business at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville. She has also completed a Master of Science in Internet Marketing from Full Sail University. Along with these degrees, her additional knowledge and abilities in the areas of web-based technology, search-engine optimization, and creative direction bring a keen perspective on the field of digital marketing. Angela is sought out for her innovative consulting in business development as well as for her fresh and entertaining public speaking and teaching. Since 1999, Angela's vision and strategic thinking have been an integral part of growing (along with her developer husband, Barry) The Belford Group.
